FRIDAY MORNING, SEPT 25, 186[illegible]

Senator Sherman on Copperheads and President Lincoln.—A Union meeting was held lately at Hillsboro, Ohio, at which John Sherman made a telling speech. He said that when he went up to Congress the full support of the country was the universal feeling. He did not expect to find a partisan in Washington. Indeed, party seemed to have been abandoned, and all seemed determined to cordially co-operate in upholding the Government—all but five members who voted against, or at least did not vote for, a single measure of Congress for putting down the rebellion. These five memorable persons, he added, were Reed and Norton of Missouri, Ben Wood of New York, and Vallandigham of Ohio. Sherman continued:

Three of them were from slave States, and as for the two from the free States, Wood [illegible] topped out lately in the New York riots, and you, the Democrats of Ohio, propose to make the other your Governor! Are you not ashamed of yourselves for being thus imposed upon by your leaders? All the Republicans voted for it—all the other Democrats—actually three of the five had the courage to come to their country's support; but Wood, you understand him, and as for Vallandigham, you propose to make him Commander-in-Chief of the State of Ohio. What a poor opinion your leaders assembled at Columbus must have had of your patriotism and good sense to ask you to vote for such a man! They mistake the patriotism of our people. I sincerely hope they will not persuade the Democrats of Ohio to vote for a convicted traitor.

They tell you that he voted to pay the soldiers. Whether that be so or not, when it was proposed to increase the soldiers' pay to thirteen dollars a month he voted against it, and when the appropriation bill came up he did not vote for it. Had the Government been in his control when the rebellion broke out, where would be the country to-day? Stripped of all historical renown, robbed of our national glory, disunited and desolated from one end to the other, the friends of popular government everywhere would be overwhelmed with despair, and republics would be at an end. But the supremacy of patriotism saved our country, and let us all unite as one party for the single purpose of binding the whole republic once more under the same glorious flag, that our children may have a country worth living for.

But you do not like the Administration. Who does not know that every Administration is liable to and actually does make mistakes? They are, however, but our agents, exercising a temporary authority. The people are the sovereigns. The President holds his office but four years, and the highest term of office is that of Senator, who is elected for six years. You can, therefore, correct all abuses at short intervals, and all you can ask of them is to do the best they can, and mortal man can do no more.

Senator Sherman said that they did know Lincoln. He was one one of the kindest and most honest men that the world affords. He cannot behold affectionate kindred weeping for one who has fallen in his country's defense without mingling his tears with theirs. The talk about his establishing a despotism is the most ridiculous nonsense that ever afflicted deluded man. He had often thought that Lincoln was altogether too kind for the emergency. He hoped his Democratic friends would live to be ashamed of all this violent criticism and gross personal abuse as unjust and unpatriotic.

Copperhead Conclusion.

The following conversation occurred between a returned Boise miner and a Portlander, at a supper table on the road between here and Salem:

Boise Miner—I am going back to the mines next spring if Lincoln does not draft me—is there any talk of a draft?

Portlander—I do not think there will be any draft.

B. M.—We have had many reports in the mines and among others that old Abe was going to draft four men out of five in Oregon and take them East to fight.

P.—That is unreasonable and therefore improbable.

B. M.—Unreasonable? why there is nothing unreasonable to such a tyrant as Lincoln! Well he won't get me; he will have to give me notice before he puts me into the army, and I can get a sack of flour and a side of bacon and go into the mountains.

P.—You should obey the laws of the Government.

B. M.—There is no Government to make laws to be obeyed.

P.—A sad state of affairs, if your notions are correct.

B. M.—Well, they won't get me by a draft; there are plenty of us that will not submit to be drafted—we will fight first.

P.—I hope there are enough who are in favor of law and order to bring you to respect the Government and obey the laws.

A short silence.

B. M.—There are a great many road agents about Boise and on the road between there and the Dalles. A man is not safe if he is supposed to have two or three hundred dollars, and is almost sure to be murdered if he steps out of the crowd.

P.—That is a bad state of affairs, but no doubt the road agents are all of your opinion, that there is no Government and no laws, so they are doing as they please, and under such circumstances must be doing right if you would be doing right in resisting the laws of the Government in the instance of the draft.

B. M.—You are an abolitionist!

This miner was a man of some education and mind, but evidently had resided in a mining region where there was much Southern sympathy and Democracy, and where the conclusion of the arguments was that there could be no Government or laws which they do not approve of; that the law should be enforced against the Boise road agents, and that those who wish to enforce the laws against Jeff. Davis' road agents are abolitionists.

A Noble Speech from a Democrat.—The [illegible] Brigadier [illegible] Wisconsin [illegible] shell, and lost [illegible] Secretary of State. In [illegible] nomination he said:

I [illegible] I ask none of [illegible] My heart [illegible] And my [illegible] who will help the [illegible] with the Democrats [illegible] I have always [illegible] with [illegible] the time [illegible] I [illegible] unconditionally [illegible] the Administration or not—whether [illegible] because [illegible] The country either lives [illegible] the next two years, and we can [illegible] the Administration unless we [illegible] what we are trying to put down. Personally I would not turn over my hand for any office in the State. I entered the army simply as a matter of duty, and it is my earnest wish to stay there. I have been told by some friends that [illegible] my duty [illegible] nomination as I [illegible] and [illegible] with [illegible] [Applause.] [illegible] their policy is [illegible] putting down this rebellion in the shortest possible time. I accept the nomination—I accept it as a Union Democrat—as a Union man—supporting the Government through thick and thin, the [illegible] the only platform I have in the world.

The speech was received with cheers upon cheers for the gallant [illegible] with the empty sleeve and his [illegible] epaulettes.

Encouraging the Working People.—A Chicago paper [illegible] refers to the extraordinary thrift noticeable in [illegible] of the West, says:

"Our manufactories and workshops are full of business; our avenues of trade and commerce are taxed to their utmost; the number of acres under cultivation has been increased even this year. We are extending our railroads in the [illegible] of the North and West [illegible] and towns the [illegible] and progress [illegible] So also, [illegible] true of New York, New England and the Middle States generally. Everywhere, says the [illegible], [illegible] shipping and mining and lumber [illegible] make requisitions upon the working classes. Anything that has two good hands upon it is seized with avidity by the needy farmers and well paid. Agricultural implements have done wonders in relieving the [illegible] of labor, but brains and muscle are not superseded. Nor is the [illegible] demand [illegible] and variable. Labor has found ready employ for many months and will not cease with the close of the harvest. Up then and hie away to the grain fields. They will need obedience, and the husbandman will want a coadjutor. The [illegible] army is calling scythes and [illegible] pressing need of recruits."

Impressment of Slaves in Alabama.—It has already been mentioned that Gov. Shorter, of Alabama, has issued an address to the citizens of that State, urging upon them the impressment of slaves into the Confederate service. The people, it seems, are [illegible] tired of the drain upon them, and are not [illegible] to substitute some of their chattels. They also oppose some of the measures of the rebel Congress. Under these circumstances the Governor advises the use of the slaves, in accordance with the popular desire. Gov. Shorter orders that no more grain shall be shipped or distilled, and that arrangements shall be made to supply all the destitute.—Shipments of cotton are to be made for Nassau, to run the blockade. He winds up with an appeal to the citizens to stand fast to the rebellion, and to comply with all the requirements, but says, in closing, he must but look to the interests of the people. In the event of his re-election, now pending, this seems significant of his intention to oppose the rebel Congress in some of their measures.

The Rebel Conscription.—Extracts from Southern papers show that the conscription ordered by Jeff. Davis does not satisfy the Dixians in any shape. The Columbus (Ga.) Times has a long article, showing that but 90,000 men remain in the States in full rebel possession who can be called upon under the wholesale conscription just ordered by Jeff. Davis. It presents detailed statistics to show this. The North Carolina papers complain bitterly of the quota placed upon that State being larger than that of any other State. The Raleigh Progress is complained of by the Petersburg Express [illegible] as the [illegible] journal very hostile to the [illegible] Government. The Progress [illegible] must have more troops or [illegible].

Cox's Conversion.—[illegible] the Cox, of Ohio [illegible] is saying in a recent speech:

"As the Hebrews looked up to the serpent which Moses erected in the wilderness [illegible] were healed, so [illegible] the Democratic party that salvation [illegible] come to this Republic."

A correspondent of the New York Post reminds Mr. Cox [illegible] the [illegible] copperheads of old [illegible] and deadly [illegible] and that the one to which he [illegible] cure only by looking [illegible] the camp [illegible] and with the application of [illegible].

Decapitated.—We learn that [illegible] of the [illegible] District of California [illegible] has not already been, removed from office. His successor [illegible] Steel [illegible] of Siskiyou [illegible] the ways of the Administration [illegible].

The Alta [illegible] Judge Steel [illegible] now at the Dalles in the service of the Government.

Illinois [illegible] Pilot [illegible] says [illegible] will be home [illegible] them sympathizing [illegible] Logan [illegible] health [illegible].

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE DAILY OREGONIAN

LATER FROM THE EAST.

Dates to September 17.

Operator Yreka.

New York, Sept. 19.—Special Washington dispatch [illegible] all of the Richmond papers of the 16th and 17th received in Washington [illegible] that Lee's army had [illegible] Little [illegible] between the Rapidan and Orange Court House, but they seem to intimate that they will remain on the defensive.

Special dispatches to the Tribune say the lower Potomac is cleared of [illegible]. A fresh [illegible] yesterday, and considerable damage was done on the lower Potomac, two [illegible] were capsized. The crops have been seriously injured by the rain. The streams are much swollen and bridges have been carried away.

St. Louis, Sept. 19.—A new Commission has been appointed to investigate the causes of the burning of steamers [illegible] in this city and [illegible] Maj. Gen. Hunter, Brigadier [illegible] and Brigadier Gen. Cadwalader.

Cairo, Sept. 19th.—Advices [illegible] all quiet in that vi[illegible] occasional [illegible] of guerrillas [illegible] a prominent [illegible] numbering [illegible] from Memphis on Thursday [illegible] miles into the country [illegible] a body of guerrillas, capturing [illegible] prisoners and horses and [illegible].

New York, Sept. 19.—Gold 135.

San Francisco, Sept. 20th.—From Japan the news is that the English fleet numbering 11 or 12 men of war had left to punish one of the Daimios who had fired into an English vessel. When the Jay was one day out she [illegible] heavy and continuous firing.

The cholera was raging at Shanghai.—Capt. Charles Allister, late a pilot in San Francisco, died of cholera at Shanghai about 20th of July. Capt. Edward Palmer, late a pilot at this port, was sick at Kanagawa.

Private advices from Mexico, state that Gen. Negrete at the head of 8,000 men, Constitutional troops, occupied Puebla and defeated Gen. Marquez, who attacked him with considerable force. Another rumor says the French troops have evacuated Jalapa, which was afterwards occupied by guerillas. Saligny, the French Minister was very ill, and there was a suspicion of poison.

Additional Eastern News

Washington, Sept. 16th.—The fact that a white flag was lately seen flying over Fort Moultrie is not considered of universal significance, as the Confederate flag itself is white with the exception of the union, which is red. Those officially acquainted with affairs in the neighborhood of Charleston attach but little if any importance to the statement.

Gen. Gilmore, in an official communication says that 36 pieces of artillery were captured on Morris Island, and that it is not impossible that others still remain concealed.

A gentleman who arrived to-day from headquarters Army of the Potomac, says that some of our troops were six or eight miles beyond Culpepper on Monday. They attempted to cross the Rapidan, but were opposed and stopped at the different places. The loss on both sides were slight. It is supposed that the main body of the rebel army was entrenched at Gordonsville.

Fortress Monroe, Sept. 16th.—The Richmond Dispatch of to-day has the following: There was an engagement at Culpeper on Sunday, and a skirmish at the Rapidan on Monday without any definite result. The enemy is crossing his infantry at Kelley's Ford, and apparently contemplates an advance.

Charleston, Sept. 11.—The enemy is perfecting arrangements for the permanent occupation of Morris Island, erecting lines of telegraph along the whole island, converting Wagner into a powerful work, enlarging the bomb proof, etc.

Atlanta, (Ga.) Sept. 11.—Gens. Johnson and Forrest skirmished with the enemy near Dalton, on Friday. Forrest was wounded. The Yankees advanced to Tunnell Hill. Gen. Wheeler had a skirmish near La Fayette the same day, and the enemy being too strong they fell back.

European Intelligence

New York, Sept. 16.—The Commercial's special Paris letter of the 1st, says: The Florida is still in port at Brest, and to-day it is stated in the journals that she is going to be seized by the owners of certain French vessels which had been burned by her; and that a British man of war was also lying to wait for her, for burning a British vessel.

The funds and commerce generally had a great advance, in view of the certainty that peace will be maintained in Europe. The next war, in the opinion of the majority, is to be with the United States, but it is too remote to effect business operations.

New York, September 16.—The Commercial says that the claims of rebel piracy, on the ocean to be treated as legalized privateering is soon to be tested in the French Courts. A preliminary decision has already [illegible] dered which British owners [illegible] the silver stolen by the pri[illegible] the ship B. [illegible] Hoyt, restr[illegible] of this property [illegible] Mar[illegible] have advanced upon it [illegible] advance being on stolen [illegible] not only lose their advan[illegible] [illegible] for damages to [illegible] The President of the Civil [illegible] has issued an order for the [illegible] and directed the proceeds [illegible] Treasury bonds at six months [illegible] tion of ownership is decided.

The Queen's Cruising.—Her Majesty has addressed the following remonstrance to the ladies of England:

Windsor Castle, August 1, 1863.

Ladies: The Queen has commanded me to express the [illegible] with which Her Majesty regards the [illegible] of the [illegible] prevailing from the wearing of the [illegible] expensive, dangerous and hideous article called crinoline. Her Majesty cannot refrain from [illegible] [illegible] the wearing of a [illegible] formed [illegible] But [illegible] ladies of England this appeal [illegible] and disgusting fashion [illegible] I have the [illegible] to be [illegible] [illegible] Lambert.

Several in [illegible] Wants.—A party of immigrants [illegible] of serving Paiute [illegible] what wages [illegible] the mines. He took a look over the ground [illegible] with a most complacent glance at his [illegible] White [illegible] two dollars [illegible] The heavy part of the joke is the Indian's statement was about correct.—Herald [illegible]

"The Cleveland Herald says that a man from Brecksville stepped into the Infirmary of that city some time since, and said he wanted a wife. The Superintendent was rather staggered at so novel an application, but finally as the fellow appeared very much in earnest, and [illegible] to [illegible] his marriageable [illegible] the women in the institution [illegible] All declined to consider [illegible] question [illegible] that unreasonable [illegible] but one, who had rather unpleasant [illegible] She was "trotted" out and the [illegible] thus addressed her: "I've got six [illegible] here, in Brecksville [illegible] cows, a fat hog, and a [illegible] will be married [illegible] I don't [illegible] small [illegible] but I have a half [illegible] will have [illegible] All I want is three [illegible] between [illegible] angry, and three meals a day [illegible] one"—this [illegible] she would [illegible] could—[illegible] and Mr. Smith [illegible] to settle the details of [illegible] The happy [illegible] next morning with a license. And he [illegible] his word. The marriage [illegible] got up [illegible] and legally [illegible].

The latest illustration of stupidity occurred in a New York Alderman's office. The Alderman wishing to sell some property, had taken a deed, joined with his wife, took his wife aside and asked her whether she was willing to sign her name without any [illegible] on the part of her husband, the Alderman himself being her husband. He then signed [illegible] of the deed, stating that he had examined his own wife "separate and apart from her husband," and attended to transfer the deed of this house to the purchasers.—The stupidity was too apparent to escape notice.

Eastern Elections.—Maine has increased her Union majorities of last year by 11,000, which may be a tribute to the consolidation of the [illegible] delinquents in no party, as well as the [illegible] in favor of the Administration which has [illegible] since the victories of July. Vermont has done her duty. Ohio promises to defeat Vallandigham with a majority of 30,000 at least. Kentucky has set her an example of Copperhead killing which she will be ashamed not to imitate.—Marysville Appeal

New York [illegible] Quotations [illegible]
San Francisco [illegible] rates [illegible]

Shipment of Treasure.—The steamer Brother Jathan which sails this morning at 4 o'clock, takes out the following amounts in gold dust and bars:

Wells, Fargo & Co.	$210,000
Allen & Lewis	25,000
Ladd & Tilton	17,200
Oregon Steam Navigation Co.	7,050
A. Cohn & [illegible]	7,000
Cohen, Lyon & Co.	6,500
Knapp, Burrell & Co.	6,450
Richards & McCraken	2,000
H. W. Corbett	1,700
Other Ships	33,000
Total	$315,000

In addition to the above, there was a large amount of gold dust and bars in the hands of passengers of whom there was a very large number.

Export.—The steamer Brother Jonathan takes out the following exports: 500 boxes apples, 40 packages butter and eggs, 22 bales wool, 1,000 dry hides, 10 bundles sheepskins and 40 boxes [illegible].

Fatal Accident.—A man by the name of William Hunter was thrown from a horse in front of the old Tremont saloon, Front street yesterday evening, and instantly killed. The facts as developed at the inquest held on the body by Coroner Grooms, are these: He was taking a horse to the ocean steamer for Dr. Ringgold, riding bare back, with but a single halter, when the horse ran away and threw him, breaking his neck. Hunter was a stranger in this vicinity, having arrived on the steamer from Cariboo, but we learn that he was originally from Philadelphia, and had during the last few years, driven a stage for Bowman & Gardner of San Francisco.

Recorder's Court.—John Chance came up before Recorder McCoy yesterday, charged with being slightly inebriated and making his couch on a portion of mother earth over which it was necessary for pedestrians to pass in perambulating our city, and he was invited to shell out some ten dollars and costs, which sum John had saved for the purpose of taking him safely out of troubles which might beset him in his stormy pathway, so he paid the fine and promised to be a better boy in the future.

Home Manufactures.—We yesterday paid a visit to the Portland foundry and machine shop, and found a number of workmen engaged in building an engine destined for a saw mill in the Boise mines. Various other kinds of work was also going on in different parts of the shop, among which we noticed the manufacture of several large bolts, sixteen feet long and an inch and a quarter in circumference, to be used in a new bridge now being constructed on Pudding river. There can be as good machine work done in Portland as anywhere on this coast.

Silver Trumpet.—A silver trumpet was put up by the proprietor of the circus, to be run for by one member from each company in the fire department. The trumpet was won by Mr. Joseph Buchtel, of Multnomah No. 2, who went around the ring ten times in one minute and eighteen seconds.

Public Sale.—One hundred and fifty thousand bricks will be sold at public sale on Saturday at 10 o'clock, in lots to suit purchasers.

Marvelous.—Lovers of the marvelous are informed, in this morning's paper, that a man will eat rocks and then swallow a sword, and also exhibit a dwarf negro woman thirty inches high and 57 years old.

Departure.—Hon. J. J. McGilvra, U. S. District Attorney for Washington Territory, leaves on the steamer this morning for Washington City, on official business. He will return next spring.

Theater.—The theater was crowded again last night to witness the highly interesting comedy of the "Love Chase," in which Mrs. Hayne, as Constance, more than sustained her reputation, but added new laurels to those she has already won. Miss Mitchell, Mr. Waldron and the whole company performed their respective in a highly creditable manner. To-night Shakspeare's great play of "Romeo and Juliet" will be performed, Mrs. Hayne as Juliet and Mr. Waldron as Romeo. This is a magnificent play, and one that all should see.

Steep.—Owing to the very low stage of water the road from the ferry landing up into the street is now so steep that teams are stalled almost every day, affording much vexation and trouble to teamsters, and merriment to the idlers around.

Good Sale.—The homestead property sold by Mr. Richardson yesterday, brought $1750, which was a very good sale.

Wickliffe of Kentucky.—Wickliffe wants some friend in each county to send him a full statement of all the circumstances which "prevented a full and free exercise of the elective franchise by citizens who were entitled to vote" at the recent election. Is Charley going to contest? He can't be quiet. Old Ben Hardin who knew his cousin very well, used to say that Charles A. Wickliffe reminded him of a celebrated French dancing master, who was so expert in turning round on his toe. He twirled so fast that the seat of his breeches was always in front.—Louisville Journal

SHIPMENT OF TREASURE.—The steamer Brother Jonathan which sails this morning at 4 o'clock takes out the following amounts in gold dust and bars

Wells Fargo & Co	$210 000
Allen & Lewis	25 000
Ladd & Tilton	17 200
Oregon Steam Navigation Co	2 950
A. Cahn & Co	7 000
Cohen, Lyon Co.	6 300
Knapp, Burrell & Co	6 400
Richards & McCraken	3 000
H. W. Corbett	1 700
Other Ships	33 000
Total	$315 ,00

In addition to the above, there was a large amount of gold dust and bars in the hands of passengers of whom there was a very large number

EXPORT.—The steamer Brother Jonathan takes out the following exports: 500 boxes apples, 46 packages butter and eggs, 22 bales wool, 10 dry hides, 10 bundles sheepskins and 40 hops.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—A man by the name of William Hunter was thrown from a horse in front of the old Tremont saloon, Front street, yesterday evening and instantly killed. The facts as developed at the inquest held on the body by Coroner Grooms, are these: He was taking a horse to the ocean steamer for Dr [illegible] riding bare back, with but a single [illegible] when the horse ran away and threw him, breaking his neck. Hunter was a stranger in this vicinity, having arrived on the steamer from Cariboo, but we learn that he was originally from Philadelphia, and had during the last few years, driven a stage for Edward Gardner of San Francisco.

RECORDER'S COURT.—John Chance came up before Recorder McCoy yesterday, charged with being slightly inebriated and making his couch on a portion of mother earth over which it was necessary for pedestrians to pass in perambulating our city, and he was invited to hand over some ten dollars and costs, which John had saved for the purpose of taking himself out of troubles which might beset him in life's stormy pathway, so he paid the fine and promised to be a better boy in the future.

HOME MANUFACTURES.—We yesterday paid a visit to the Portland foundry and machine shop, and found a number of workmen engaged in building an engine destined for a mill in the Boise mines. Various other kinds of work was also going on in different parts of the shop, among which we noticed the manufacture of several large bolts, sixteen feet long and an inch and a quarter in circumference, to be used in a new bridge now being constructed on Pudding river. There can be as good machine work done in Portland as anywhere on this coast.

SILVER TRUMPET.—A silver trumpet was bought by the proprietor of the circus, to be run for by one member from each company of the fire department. The trumpet was won by Mr Joseph Buchtel, of Multnomah [illegible], who went around the ring ten times in one minute and eighteen seconds.

PUBLIC SALE.—One hundred and fifty thousand bricks will be sold at public sale on Saturday at 10 o'clock, in lots to suit purchasers.

MARVELOUS.—Lovers of the marvelous are informed, in this morning's paper, that a man will eat rocks and then swallow a sword, and also exhibit a dwarf negro woman thirty inches high and 57 years old.

DEPARTURE.—Hon J J McGilvra, U S District Attorney for Washington Territory, leaves on the steamer this morning for Washington City, on official business. He will return next spring.

THEATER.—The theater was crowded again last night to witness the highly interesting comedy of the "Love Chase," in which Mrs. Hayne as Constance, more than sustained her reputation, but added new laurels to those she has already won. Miss Mitchell, Mr. Waldron and the whole company, performed their respective parts in a highly creditable manner. To-night Shakspeare's great play of "Romeo and Juliet" will be performed, Mrs Hayne as Juliet and Mr Waldron as Romeo. This is a magnificent play, and one that all should see.

STEEP.—Owing to the very low stage of water, the road from the ferry landing up into the street is now so steep that teams are stalled almost every day, affording much vexation and trouble to teamsters, and merriment to the idlers around.

GOOD SALE.—The homestead property sold by Mr Richardson yesterday, brought $1750, which was a very good sale.

WICKLIFFE OF KENTUCKY.—Wickliffe wants some friend in each county to send him a full statement of all the circumstances which prevented a full and free exercise of the elective franchise by citizens who were entitled to vote at the recent election. Is Charley going to contest? He can't be quiet. Old Ben Hardin, who knew his cousin very well, used to say that Charles A. Letter from Col. Maury's Expedition.

The following is an extract from a letter to the Walla Walla Statesman, written by a gentleman attached to Col. Maury's Expedition, dated Port Neuf river, I. T., Aug. 20, 1863:

"Camas Prairie is a beautiful valley. It is full 30 miles long, from East to West, and from 16 to 22 miles wide. It is watered by many fine streams which come down from the hills, and cross it at intervals of from one to four miles, and from the West fork of Malade river at the South side of the valley, which flows eastward through its whole length.

"The soil bears the appearance of being very rich; and fine timber, in considerable quantities, may be found in the hills on either side, within five miles of the margin of the valley. Indians now at this place, whose homes, in winter, are at Camas Prairie, inform us that but little snow ever falls there, and that it never remains long at a time. If this be true, it is by far the most desirable place to build up a settlement that we have found on the whole line of our march.

"Col. Maury established a depot on Trail creek; and Major Rinearson, in command of two companies of Infantry and a detachment of Cavalry, is now there.

"Among the distinguishing features of the route from Camas Prairie to this place, the Desert and the Lava Field are worthy of particular mention. The road is good; and grass, water and wood plenty for 80 miles, to where we approach the Lava Fields. These are among the wonders of Idaho, the written history of which has not yet transpired, and which is by far too voluminous for a newspaper article. I will only give you a meagre sketch. For forty miles the route lies along the base of huge mountains, whose craggy heights are the home of perpetual winter.—Following the base of the hills, and pressing up into every little nook and cove, is a vast, dark line of lava, stretching out from the road southward almost as far as the eye can see; a mass of cinder, cracked and gaping like monster doom—distorted, scaly, sulphuric and abysmal—resembling, I imagine, an abandoned Pandemonium, rusty and wasting from long disuse. The road is not bad; but winds along between the base of the hills, and the margin of that dark expanse with scarcely room, in places, for a wagon to pass. The waves of cinder form a complete and continuous wall, from five to twenty feet high and far more insurmountable than were the walls of Jericho and Jerusalem.

"In appearance, this resembles pot-metal; and the wall projects at the top like a rushing billow.

"The weather was hot and smokey; the haze that hung over that sombre region, seemed to come up from the smouldering hell beneath. The heat shimmered upward as from a furnace. Along the verge of the valley, in the heaps of lava, were rattle snakes, scorpions, horned toads and lizards. Here and there, a raven flapped by with its dismal croak; and dwarfed chip munks twittered along the mouldy crevices. I could easily imagine the sound of unearthly groans, the snapping of bats, the hooting of owls and the hollow rattle of dry bones coming up from that truly wonderful valley.

Passing beyond where the mountains seem to have baffled that moulten sea in days gone by, the valley becomes broader, and the lava more scattered, being in ridges and detached heaps; yet the scene is scarcely less desolate than before, for there is only sand and sage between the patches and belts of lava. Here is a stretch of twenty miles without water. Winding across the parched and sandy plain, feeling scorched and nervous, suddenly we came upon the brink of a river. I was forcibly reminded of the Styx, and I involuntarily looked for the gent. who is said to ply the ferry on that gloomy stream. It was Lost river; and indeed the name seemed suggestive and appropriate, for it appears without origin or destiny. It is differently named on the maps, Guidons and Godins river; but the emigrants know it only as Lost river. It sinks in the vicinity of the "Three Buttes," according to the maps, after flowing for 20 or 30 miles in a direction opposite to the course of Snake river. Following this river four or five miles, the road bears directly South over a sandy plain for forty miles, with no water except one very small spring ten miles out from the river. This is in every respect a desert. Large tracts on either side of the road are covered with lava of a similar nature to that further West.

"Shoshone springs, at this edge of the desert, are large, fine springs, affording water enough to drive any grist mill. From these springs to the ferry it is twelve miles."

West Virginia Methodism.—The Pittsburg Christian Advocate, speaking of the thorough loyalty of the people in Western Virginia, says:

But the history of West Virginia, in its prospects of great material prosperity in coming years, is rivaled, if not surpassed by the glowing future that awaits the Methodist Church. Her ministers and members, with inconsiderable exceptions, have occupied a foremost place among loyal men. They advocate the Union, the Constitution and the laws, amid scenes of the most violent commotion, and in the midst of the greatest peril. They suffer for the cause which they espoused and defended. We met Methodist farmers, exiles from home, their property wasted, their families reduced to the utmost straits; Methodist merchants plundered of all their goods, and forced to flee for their lives; and Methodist preachers, robbed of their horses, driven from their charges, hunted like wild beasts. Sufferings like these, experienced in the interest of freedom and the new State, and borne with patience and equanimity, cannot fail to bring a rich and glorious future. No other church has so labored and so suffered. Nor is this strange, for in the rural districts no other Church is so strong and influential. Her unmistakable and unflagging loyalty will make her the Methodist Church of the future in West Virginia. The success of the National Government will deal a death blow to Southern Methodism from which it will never recover. It can only stand out in the future as the disloyal Methodist Church during the great rebellion. This will be its ruin. It will fade away. And the time will come when it will be merged and lost in the Old Church, from which it was torn by the division of 1844. This will not be accomplished in a day, nor a year, nor perhaps a decade of years. But it will happen. The re-establishment of the Union in every part of the public domain will be he forerunner and prophet of the event.

Conversation on the Corner.—"Jake, do you think them soldiers will bother us 'Dimecrats' when this war is over and they all get home?"

"No, no, Uncle Johnny, not that part of us 'Dimecrats' as is 'Dimecrats,' but they will play hell with us 'Dimecrats' as is copperheads, and been opposing the draft and the like, and for dividing our country. But for them the war would have been over long ago. Be sure, Uncle Johnny, you are a 'Dimecrat' as is a Dimecrat, for them pesky copperheads will be a small party of us, indade, when this war is over, and thin it will be comfortable to be on the right side, ye know, the side of yer country."

The Women in the South.—It has been the fashion, for some years past, on the part of the rebels, says the New York Evening Post, to claim that their men are "the bravest of the brave," and their women "the fairest of the fair." They have also maintained that the Southern people are more refined, elegant and noble than those of the North, and we have among us those who have swallowed these statements without winking. We have even heard from the pulpits of Union preachers, eulogies on the race with small hands and feet and flowing hair. Those of us who have been in the South have long known that refinement in its truest sense does not exist there, and that practices inconsistent with morality, [illegible], and even cleanliness, prevail among the wealthiest and most educated classes. The following extract from a letter of a gentleman with our army in the Southwest, is quite apropos of our experience:

"I have talked with a great many of the women who came to Rousseau for their rations, and find them most indifferent to the return of their liege lords. In their habits, such as smoking, chewing, and dipping, they are most disgusting. I was sitting in the tent of Capt. Williams, at Rousseau's a day or two since, admiring the delicate, well turned features of a woman who, had she been educated, would have been thought beautiful, and was about to express some such idea to Captain Williams, when she turned her head to one side and, with the air and appearance of a practiced chewer, 'squirted' a stream of saliva from her thin lips, and then throwing away the tobacco she had been chewing, took from her pocket a small phial of snuff, and with a spoon-shaped bit of wood, filled her mouth with the filthy drug. 'Major, allow me,' said another young and beautiful damsel, to a friend of mine, who had just filled his pipe. At the same time she took a clay pipe from her pocket and filled it with the Major's strong smoking tobacco, and puffed away with perfect, but by no means charming, nonchalance. The ignorance of these people is as disgusting as their manners. I am told by some members of the Christian Commission that they have ten times the number of applications from slaves for reading matter, primers, etc., that they have from the white citizens. At the headquarters of General Rousseau, at Cowan, rations are issued to two hundred and thirty-five persons every day; the picture I have drawn of them will apply to all that I have seen in this vicinity. I have seen 'no better class of chivalry' yet, I suppose and hope they have some south."
